'THIEF STOLE MY INDEPENDENCE'

OAP stranded as mobility scooter taken as she shopped

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A DISABLED pensioner whose mobility scooter was stolen while she was in a shop says the thief has robbed her of her independence.

Jan Hepworth, 70, of Vicarage Wood, Harlow, relies on her Shop-rider Perrero scooter which she uses every day.

She said that without it she is unable to get out and about.

Mrs Hepworth had parked the scooter outside the Aldi store at The Stow while she went inside to do some shopping on Saturday morning. When she left the premises at about 11am it had gone.

"I parked it just outside the exit and the key to it was safely in my pocket," she said. "I picked up a shopping trolley as I cannot walk very well unaided. I was only in the shop a few minutes and when I came out my mobility scooter had gone."

Shock

"I could not believe it was gone. I was in shock as I could not have been in the shop for more than eight minutes. I was left quite traumatised."

Mrs Hepworth reported the theft of the scooter, which is worth more than £1,000 and is not insured, to the police. She was told the store's CCTV filmed a man driving it away.

Police have confirmed they are investigating it as a suspected theft.

Mrs Hepworth, who has lived in Harlow since 1952, is a regular shopper at Aldi, which she visits several times a week.

She bought the scooter three years ago and uses it for short trips which she would otherwise be unable to manage.

"I could get to The High and the old town and, until he died, I walked my dog every day in the Town Park on my scooter," she said.

"You can't believe how I feel as the scooter was my only means of mobility and I have no chance of getting a new one."

Mrs Hepworth believes the scooter was stolen by someone using a key from another vehicle as they are not unique.

"This has got to be a warning to others as I have been left stranded," she added. "I always park in the same place by the exit."

Mrs Hepworth is married to husband Bob, 73. They have three children, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

■ Anyone with information about the theft should contact Harlow police on the non-emergency 101 number.

Trio arrested after raids as attempted murder probe continues

THREE people have been arrested on suspicion of attempted murder by police investigating an attack during which two men were attacked with a meat cleaver and a claw hammer at a house in Harlow.

Officers with search warrants raided four addresses in Elwood, Orchard Croft, Sakins Croft and Carters Mead yesterday (Wednesday) morning.

A 31-year-old man, a 31-year-old woman and a 28-year-old man, all from Harlow, were arrested on suspicion of attempted murder and aggravated burglary.

They were taken to Harlow police station for questioning.

Victims

The victims of the attack, a father and son, were asleep at their home in Tunneadale when they were woken by a knock at the door shortly after 9pm on Wednesday, March 25.

When they went to answer, three people forced their way into the property and demanded cash. There was a struggle during which the older man was struck with a meat cleaver and suffered numerous wounds to his head, arms and legs.

He was forced to go upstairs by his assailants and made to hand over £1,600 in £20 notes.

The suspects also attacked the younger victim, cutting him to the bone on his back and breaking his collarbone.

Detective Constable Ryan Burgess said: "The search warrants we executed demonstrate how we remain committed to this investigation.

"The injuries suffered by the victims in this attack were horrific."

■ Anyone with information about the attack is asked to contact DC Burgess at Harlow CID on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

MP pushing for free public wifi in town centre

Halfon starts online petition to gather support

Gemma Gardner

A CAMPAIGN to bring free public wifi to Harlow town centre has been launched by MP Robert Halfon.

If successful, the Tory MP hopes to roll-out the project ward by ward until everyone in the town has access to free wifi.

Mr Halfon, who made the pledge shortly after being re-elected, set-up an online petition on Monday to gather support for the plans.

He said: "Harlow is the birth place of fibre-optic technology. As such, I want every resident - especially those from lower incomes - to have access to free wifi across the town.

"Every Harlow resident, old or young, should have access to the internet and to not be inhibited by cost.

"Free access to the internet via wifi would empower thousands of Harlow residents, looking for information, searching for jobs, and other opportunities."

Speaking this week, the new deputy chairman of the Conservative Party said: "Free wifi is now available in many of the country's great towns and cities, including Bishop's Stortford, and so I am calling for it to be rolled out across Harlow, initially in the town centre, for the benefit of all residents."

More than six out of 10 people in the UK now use a mobile device to access the internet, with trends showing that those numbers will increase further.

However, many factors including cost, speed of internet, how many people would be estimated to be using it and the geographical area it would cover will need to be taken into account when deciding how to proceed.

Mr Halfon added: "This petition urges all Harlow authorities, particularly our local councils, to work towards giving free wifi to all Harlow people, to engage business and our community to look at ways free wifi can be achieved, starting with a roll out in the town centre and extended ward by ward.

"We should all champion Harlow and I will work hard to ensure that all Harlow residents, particularly lower earners, can get the power of the internet at no cost.

Mr Halfon is urging all residents to sign the online petition 'Free wifi for Harlow town centre' in the hope it will aid his campaign.

"I have set up an online petition which I encourage everyone to sign so that we can get free wifi in the town centre as soon as possible. I will work with the local authorities, particularly Harlow council, to deliver what is needed to bring about this change," he added.

To sign the petition visit www.change.org and search for 'free wifi for Harlow town centre'.

Police to use drug test kits on motorists

MOTORISTS stopped on suspicion of drinking and driving will also be given roadside drugs tests as part of Essex Police's summer crackdown.

The month-long campaign, which started on Monday, will focus on towns with bustling night-time economies as well as rural areas where some drivers believe they have less chance of being caught.

And for the first time officers on patrol will be issued with new drug testing kits which can detect illegal substances including cannabis and cocaine following the introduction of new legislation in March this year.

The new rules run alongside an existing law under which it is an offence to drive when impaired by any drug. The new regulations set low levels for eight illegal drugs and much higher ones for prescription drugs.

The penalties for drug driving are the same as for drink driving - a minimum 12-month driving ban, a fine and/or a prison sentence of up to six months.

Drivers using prescription drugs within recommended doses will not be penalised.

Equipped

The man heading up the countywide campaign, Essex Police's casualty reduction manager Adam Pipe, said: "We are better equipped than ever and officers will continue to crack down on irresponsible drivers who get behind the wheel under the influence, but we need the public's help.

"We're asking residents to take some responsibility for the safety of their community and tell us about people who put the lives of innocent road users at risk by driving drunk or high on drugs."

Ann Scott, eastern regional manager for Crimestoppers, added: "Some people may have information about a regular drink driver but feel uncomfortable going directly to the police, especially if they are a neighbour, family member or friend. There is a safe alternative in passing information to Crimestoppers.

"We take this information anonymously. We never ask for the caller's name or any personal details, we do not trace or record the calls and those giving information do not have to give a statement to the police or go to court. Nobody will know you called."

To report someone who regularly drives under the influence of drink or drugs, call Essex Police on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Ex Corrie actress offers words of support

SOAP star Denise Welch visited Harlow this week in her role as an ambassador for the healthy lifestyles programme LighterLife.

The former Coronation Street and Waterloo Road actress met slimmers at the company's Harlow Business Park base.

Ms Welch, who lost two stone on the programme, swapped stories with clients and offered words of encouragement to achieve their goals.

"It was fantastic meeting other clients in Harlow and sharing their inspirational stories," she said.

"Losing two stone has made me fitter, happy and healthy. I'm passionate about LighterLife and really believe their philosophy that in order to change how we eat, we need to change the way we think first."

Among the people Ms Welch met was Gary Williams, who lost six stone in six months while on the programme.

Open verdicts over airplane crash deaths

A CORONER has recorded open verdicts at an inquest into the deaths of a pilot and his passenger who died when a light aircraft crashed.

Dad-of-one Simon Chamberlain, 29, of Riverside Court, Harlow, and Andrew Sully, 50, of Writtle, died when the Yak-52 training plane mysteriously nosedived into a field.

The inquest at Chelmsford Coroners Court was told witnesses saw the plane flying at between 100ft-200ft shortly before it crashed.

It then climbed to twice that height before nosediving into the ground and bursting into flames. Both men died from multiple injuries.

Investigators with the Air Accident Investigation Branch of the Department for Transport told the hearing there was no way of knowing why the aircraft was flying so low.

Investigator Andrew Robinson said there were some parts of the aircraft which could not be examined because of fire damage, but of what remained, they could find nothing which would have contributed to the accident.

He said: "The difficulty in understanding this accident lies in why the aircraft was flying at that low to moderate speed, why at that low height, straight and level over a field in which a forced landing could be made.

"We cannot dismiss the possibility

WRECKAGE: The tail of the Yak 52 plane that crashed near Writtle, killing both occupants of some sort of engine power problem. We cannot explain the final manoeuvre. It's clear the final manoeuvre occurred at a height from which recovery was not possible."

Mr Sully was a first officer with British Airways and a former RAF pilot who flew in the Gulf War. Mr Chamberlain was volunteer secretary and a trustee of North Weald museum.

The inquest was told Mr Sully offered Mr Chamberlain the chance to be a passenger during the flight when he saw him at North Weald Airfield on the afternoon of the tragedy in March last year.

After the hearing, Mr Chamberlain's wife Lizzie and his parents issued a statement in which they said: "We are very disappointed that, despite the best efforts of the AAIB and Essex Police, who we would like to thank for their efforts, we are no closer to finding out why that aircraft was flying so low and so slowly over that part of Essex which led to the tragic loss of life and has left so many people in grief."

GP and NHS trust cleared over brain damage claim

Multi-million pound lawsuit on behalf of baby girl dismissed

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A YOUNG girl from Harlow who was left irreversibly brain damaged after battling meningitis had her multi-million pound bid for compensation rejected by a High Court judge this week.

Mr Justice Jay cleared the Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust and a GP of all blame for the 12-year-old's lifelong disabilities.

The girl, whose identity is protected by a court order, was left profoundly deaf and with learning difficulties after contracting the potentially fatal bug when she was just 13 months old.

Her lawyers sought massive damages for negligence against Dr Sohail Rana, and the hospital trust.

They claimed Dr Rana failed to carry out an adequate examination or get a proper history of the girl and failed to heed what he was being told about her condition by her mum when he visited their home during the evening of September 28, 2003.

Barrister Philippa Whipple said that had he done so she would have been taken to hospital sooner where swift treatment with antibiotics would have left her unscathed.

However, the judge said Dr Rana was an honest and truthful witness, describing him as "a humane and diligent GP who strives to do his best for his patients".

Exonerating the GP, the judge said Dr Rana took an adequate history and carried out an adequate examination.

Diagnosis

The girl's lawyers also claimed that if a proper examination had been carried out by a doctor in the A&E department of PAH the following day, it would have led to earlier diagnosis and effective treatment.

But again the judge ruled the hospital medic took an adequate history from the parents and undertook an adequate examination of the girl, adding there had been no rush to judgement on the doctor's part.

Later on September 29 the child was taken back to the Princess Alexandra Hospital where she was given intravenous antibiotics.

The judge said: "Unfortunately she developed pneumococcal meningitis combined with other features, and sustained irreversible brain damage."

A hospital spokeswoman said it did not want to comment on the ruling.

APPLE WATCH

What a way to greet visitors

SIR I have been resident of Harlow for over 30 years and I like to think I'm proud of where I live. It's for this reason I feel compelled to write this letter.

As you enter Harlow via the A414/M11, how are you greeted? Is it with stunning display of flowerbeds, an impressive sculpture from the town's extensive collection or even a welcoming sign?

No, none of the above. The first thing you see as you enter Harlow is this boarded-up Indian restaurant which has now become Harlow's newest refuse site and overnight lorry park.

This building is surrounded by a mountain of disused car by a mountain of disused car tyres, general waste and even an abandoned caravan, all of which has been steadily growing since the last occupants vacated the building.

What a wonderful first impression awaits our town's visitors and potential new businesses owners. It's an embarrassment!

I have few questions which I hope Star readers, councillors, landowners or even our MP could answer.

Is anything being done about this site and are the people who own it being brought to task? Did Robert Halfon notice this disgusting eyesore on the numerous evenings he sat by the side of the road next to it prior to his re-election? Is this mountain of rubber, paper, wood and possibly hazardous waste, all within metres of a petrol station, a potential fire disaster waiting to happen? Is the fire service aware and does it have the power to take action?

Finally, will the hardworking council taxpayers of Harlow be expected to pay for this mess to be cleaned up? If somebody doesn't do their job and bring the people responsible to task, there is a very real potential for disaster.

Aron Stevens
Langdale Street, Newhall, Harlow

Keep taking the tablets

SIR For politicians, the period just after a general election is a good time to bury bad news.

A few days after the election Harlow Council announced its meetings will be paperless, with councillors totally reliant on tablet computers. Committee agendas, supporting reports, planning applications and so forth will only be visible on tiny screens.

Even the simple 11-page agenda for annual council meeting will require over 40 screen views and 'strokes' of the screen.

Apparently it will be possible to attach digital notes to pages but you still have to flick through countless pages to find them afterwards, which will hardly make for a business-like process at meetings.

And what if you want to create your own documents? It is not possible to print from the tablets, so how do you respond to a

READER photo of the week

■ This week's photo, taken by Andy Mortlock, of Parsonage Leys, Harlow, is definitely not for arachnophobes. "I know they are not anyone's cup of tea but my wife spotted these spiderlings on our recycling bin and I couldn't resist taking a close-up picture," he writes.

■ If you have a photo you would like to see featured, email a high resolution copy, along with a description of your photo and details of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

resident who has written to you?

It is almost as if the administration wants to prevent any consideration of its proposals and contact between residents and their representatives.

When Steve Jobs rolled out his tablet computer everyone said how smart it was – but what was it for? It's too big to go in a pocket and too small for practical use, so they have ended up with small children daubing pictures and teenagers posting selfies on social networks.

Is this what the council has reduced its elected representatives to, handing out toys instead of proper tools for a proper job?

Cllr Simon Carter (Conservative)
Mark Hall Moors, Harlow

Poor service on the buses

SIR I agree with G. Felstead about the unacceptable bus service on the routes from Katherines to the town centre (Letters, May 21).

The buses are dirty inside and out. They appear never to have seen soap and water and the seats are flat and torn. When you get on you don't want to touch anything, not even the button for the bell.

I don't understand why we have an operator that only has two buses. There are enough people in Sumners and Katherines to facilitate the service.

From 11am-2pm they seem to drop a service out and you have to wait up to an hour. As for them breaking down, on most days it's a regular occurrence.

If you want to go further than into town it involves more than one bus company and therefore becomes more expensive. Harlow is only a small town, there should be a universal ticket.

Maureen Boochoon
Seymours, Harlow

Ricky, you're a true gent

SIR There are kind people in Harlow and I would like to say a big thank you to the kind gentleman who helped pay for my fish at the Fish 'n' Chicken at Potter Street last Saturday.

The card reader was out of order and I had no cash on me. I tried the cash machine but that, too, was out of order.

This kind person, who I know only as Ricky, came to my aid and paid for me. I was more concerned getting it home for my ill son's tea so a big thank you to Ricky. I will pay you back.

Light relief for motorists

SIR I wonder how many people have noticed the difference in the flow of traffic on Second Avenue passing the Leisure Zone due to the traffic lights been covered up over the past two weeks at the roundabout near the police station?

The traffic is flowing freely since the lights have been covered up.

I suggest all that is required is that buses have right of way and other road users have to give way. There is no need for traffic lights and nothing is being achieved by them except a congestion of traffic building up.

How many drivers agree with me?

A. Dixon
Pittmans Field, Harlow

Thanks for all your support

SIR We would like to thank everyone in the east of England who helped us turn May purple during Action on Stroke month.

Communities up and down the country united to show their solidarity for the 1.2 million stroke survivors in the UK. From holding purple cake sales and doing sponsored fun runs to turning landmarks or wardrobes purple, your tireless support has been truly humbling.

Stroke is cruel. It happens in an instant but its effects can last a lifetime. It can rob you of speech, mobility and dignity.

At the Stroke Association we believe in life after stroke. Thanks to the selfless dedication and commitment of your readers, we know that together we can conquer stroke.

Park grass is now knee high

SIR How I envy R.D. Lucia whose grassed areas are cut every 28 days (Letters, May 28).

The grass at the Swallows recreation area in Old Harlow has only been cut once this year. It is knee high in most places and the cow parsley is waist high.

When this much-heralded new equipment finally does come, we shall be left with clumps of rotting grass cuttings lying around for weeks.

With all the worries about obesity in young children, where can they play their games?

B.J. Stevens
Millfield, Old Harlow

What's wrong with walking?

SIR Having read the letter in last week's Star about the parking nightmare in Harlow and especially around schools, I agree that is the case in some areas.

However, I know it's an old fashioned but what happened to the idea that children walked to school and home again, especially as it is still light when schools shut?

LET'S ROCK: Anthem on stage at free music event LinkFest on Sunday in Harlow Town Park

First summer concert hailed a success

CROWDS enjoyed a varied range of music at the first of Harlow's 2015 LinkFest concerts in the Town Park on Sunday.

The change of format for this year has seen the event switch from a weekend festival to three single Sundays throughout the summer.

More than 700 people attended Sunday's performances from local bands including Scooby, Repertoire Dogs and Anthem, while fast-rising Albino Peaches treated the crowd to a setlist of new material.

Organiser Jamie Pring said: "I would like to say an enormous thank you to everyone who braved the British weather to come out and support the festival."

"There were lots of great performances throughout the day and some great feedback from the crowd.

"The support we received from our sponsors, concessions and the GPCA is always greatly received but none of this works without an audience so from all the team, the bands, the volunteers, Victoria Hall looking after the car parks and the concessions, a massive thank you for your continued support."

RESIDENTS, businesses and community groups are being asked for their views on how The Stow area of Harlow should be regenerated.

The consultation, which started on Monday, will help guide future development as part of a regeneration programme for the shopping parade.

Comments are being sought on several options for changes in the short, medium and long term including parking permit zones for residents and businesses, improved car parks, changes to the road network and residential development.

Important

Councillor Tony Durcan, portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "The Stow was the first neighbourhood shopping centre in Harlow and will always have an important place in the town's history."

"Today it is still a vibrant place with many local businesses operating in the area and there is some community activity but we know it could be a better place for local residents."

"Recent investment with the Aldi development gives us the opportunity to regenerate the Stow and we want to put a plan in place to help make that happen.

"The most important part of this work is to continue to get the views of local residents, businesses and community groups so together we can put that plan in place."

The Stow Neighbourhood Centre Design Framework SPD document, produced with Essex County Council Place Services, provides background and analysis of the area, identifies strengths and opportunities and details various development options.

The document can be read and views given on the council's website at www.harlow.gov.uk/spd.

The planning blueprint is also available to read in the Civic Centre, Central Library and Mark Hall Library.

An exhibition is also being held at 22 The Stow next to the Salvation Army charity shop from 1-8pm today (Thursday) at which council officers will be present to answer any questions on the document.

There will also be an unstaffed exhibition at the Civic Centre from Friday. The consultation runs until Monday, June 29.

Ten-year ban for woman guilty of animal neglect

A WOMAN has been given a suspended prison sentence and banned from keeping animals for 10 years after she admitted causing unnecessary suffering to three horses and a pig she kept at a small holding.

Kelly Buteux, of Halling Hill, Harlow, was sentenced at Stevenage Magistrates Court last Tuesday after pleading guilty to six charges at an earlier hearing.

The court was told that in October last year Buteux was found to have failed to adequately feed and care for the animals which she kept at the holding in Sawbridgeworth. It was stated the animals were malnourished and severely underweight.

Buteux also failed to provide suitable bedding for the pig and neglected to provide veterinary care for one of the horses which had an abscess on its foot, causing it considerable pain.

Investigation

Buteux was charged with the offences following an investigation by Hertfordshire Constabulary's Rural Operational Support Team (ROST).

She was given an 18-week custodial sentence suspended for 12 months, a 12-month community order and a 12-month curfew with electronic tagging which prohibits her from leaving her home between 7pm and 7am.

Detective Constable Amanda Matthews, from the ROST said: "No animal should have to suffer as the animals did that were in Kelly Buteux's care.

"I am very pleased with the outcome of this sentencing and I hope it sends a stark warning to anyone who has animals in their care that the police, alongside the RSPCA, will deal swiftly and robustly with anyone who neglects animals."

Hospice dependent on volunteer army

Dedicated band help out in every aspect of work

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE important role played by the army of helpers at St Clare Hospice is being highlighted during national Volunteers Week, which started on Monday.

More than 550 volunteers provide support for the hospice at Hastingwood in many and varied ways, helping to care for local people with a life-limiting or terminal illness and their families.

From traditional roles such as helping in the hospice's eight fundraising shops to offering their services as complementary therapists, the scope of opportunities to volunteers at the hospice has grown over the past 25 years as the range of services on offer has expanded.

Christine Crump, voluntary services manager at St Clare which this year is celebrating its 25th anniversary, said: "Throughout the year our dedicated volunteers give 100,000 hours of their time to support the hospice, engaging in every aspect of our work and helping us to extend the support we offer not only to patients but to their relatives and loved ones.

"We are very lucky to be able to say that some of our volunteers have been with us from the very start when St Clare was founded in 1990.

"It's true to say that without this very special collaboration we would not be able to sustain or develop the high level of care that St Clare has become renowned for over the past quarter of a century."

HAPPY TO HELP: Margaret Hopkinson offers her services as a Community Friend

One of the most recent volunteering roles is the St Clare Community Friends, who were introduced as part of the Hospice at Home service to offer an extra pair of hands, companionship and practical help.

One of those who took up the challenge is Margaret Hopkinson, who visited the same lady every Monday afternoon for almost a year until she passed away, keeping her company while her husband attended a regular hospital appointment.

During her visits, Margaret helped writing letters or pottering in the garden.

"The lady I visited was in bed at home and they both wanted her to have a visitor so she wouldn't be alone all day," said Margaret.

"She was an interesting woman and we had lots of interests in common. She, like me, loved animals and gardening so we always had lots to talk about. She was also a brilliant artist and I felt so honoured when she showed me her portfolio of work.

"When I gave up work I really missed the daily interaction with people and although I have lots of friends who I could meet for lunch or walks, I missed the routine and responsibility of work so volunteering was such a good option for me.

"It feels so right for me to be involved in the local community, and volunteering for St Clare has also changed my idea of what a hospice can offer."

Purse thieves steal £5,000 from victim's bank account

THIEVES stole a pensioner's purse while she was out shopping in Bishop's Stortford and then travelled to Harlow where they withdrew money from her bank account.

The 87-year-old victim believes her purse was taken while she was using a cashpoint machine in Stortford shortly after 2pm last Thursday.

She then used a debit card to buy items from a shop in Jackson Square before going on to Sainsbury's, where she discovered that her purse was missing.

It is believed that a man and woman who were standing behind her when she used the ATM stole the purse.

After the purse was stolen, £3,000 was withdrawn from the victim's bank account in Stortford and a further £2,000 in Harlow.

Slimmers raise £400

MEMBERS of a Harlow slimming group raised more than £400 for charity when they took part in last month's Cancer Research UK Race for Life in the Town Park.

The Slimming World RFL team were led by consultant Kirsty Steidle, who completed the 'pound for pound' challenge with her three children.

"It was a great atmosphere and we were blown away to raise £400 for such a fabulous cause," she said.

VE Day tea party for cancer care charity

PROCEEDS from a tea party themed on VE Day celebrations have been donated to the Marie Curie cancer care charity.

The party was the sixth to be held at the Roydon home of Linda Fawcett and included nostalgic music, fancy dress, a plant sale and raffle.

Over the years Linda has raised £3,855 for Marie Curie.

Ruth Bendle, community fundraiser for the charity, said: "I was privileged to have the opportunity to go along to Linda's event and see how everyone their was enjoying their favourite treats in the sunshine whilst also raising money to help Marie Curie Nurses provide more free care to terminally ill people in the local area."

"It's always lovely to meet people like Linda and her family and see how much they put in to supporting Marie Curie."

Entrepreneur is helping others get off ground

Matthew, 22, nominated for YOPEY award

Gemma Gardner

A YOUNG entrepreneur who used his success in business to help others by launching a charitable trust has been nominated for an award.

Matthew Martino, who lives in Spinning Wheel Mead, Harlow, with his parents and sister, has been put forward for an Essex Young People of the Year (YOPEY) award in recognition of his achievements as a positive role model.

Born in Zimbabwe, Matthew moved to the UK 10 years ago. By the age of 14 he was running a market stall selling mobile phone accessories from China.

He left school at 16 and went into acting. Six years later he is working as a producer making his own movies.

Alongside this and various other business interests – including property and apps – Matthew earned enough money to get his private pilot's licence about which he has written a short book called Let's Fly.

But at times Matthew found success and wealth hard to handle. He once blew £3,500 on drinks for himself and friends on a single night out in London, got involved in public rows with other people in the movie industry and used to go on holiday "almost monthly" until his mother took away his passport.

Two years ago Matthew realised he had to grow up and with the help of solicitor Mark Payne he set up the Matthew Martino Benevolent Fund (MMBF), giving grants to young people who want to learn to fly and make films. It was Mr Payne who nominated Matthew for a YOPEY.

Simon Pheffer, who works for MMBF, said: "Matthew went from being totally crazy to becoming greatly involved at church and attending services every Saturday. He has changed a lot of his friends."

"He put a stop to the money wasting as well as starting to be responsible. He has come a long way and I'm glad the change I see in him is from the inside."

Matthew said: "I set up MMBF Trust to empower young people in the two industries that have helped me to be where I am today – aviation and the arts."

Matthew gave £50,000 to MMBF which will last until the end of this year and has signed over stakes in some of his businesses to MMBF. He hopes the profits from these businesses will enable the fund to continue supporting young people for years to come.

One of those to benefit from the fund is Tinotenda Paddington, who said: "I had almost given up hope on getting a private pilot's licence as I did not have the funding to pay for it myself. That was until I received an email saying that I was going to receive over £6,000 for the scholarship."

Matthew added: "I have found greater wealth in being able to do what makes me happy and by also being able to help others."

"A lot of wealthy people I know would sooner buy a Versace scarf or book a first-class holiday than give to charity."

■ Essex YOPEY is open to young people aged 10-25 who live, work or study in the county. To nominate someone for either a junior or award (10-17) or a senior award (18-25), visit www.yopey.org

Three in running to take over rail franchise

THE three companies bidding to take over rail services in the region have been announced this week.

All three – Abellio East Anglia Limited in a joint venture between Abellio and Stagecoach, First East Anglia Limited and National Express East Anglia Trains Limited – have successfully passed the pre-qualification stage to make it on to the shortlist for the East Anglia rail franchise, which includes services through Harlow.

They will now work with the Government to develop their proposals before receiving the invitation to tender in August.

As part of the process they will have to show how they will improve the region's railways, including cutting journey times to London, providing more reliable services and offering better connections.

Rail minister Claire Perry said: "We have ambitious plans for East Anglia's rail network and the successful bidder will be central to making them a reality."

"We want to find a partner who will help us meet the increasing demand for transport in the region by providing faster, more reliable journeys and better connections across the region and beyond."

The new operator is due to take over the franchise in October 2016. The East Anglia franchise, which is currently operated by Abellio Greater Anglia, carries 354,000 passengers a day on five routes across the region.

A public consultation on the future of rail services in East Anglia closed in March and the responses will be taken into account as the franchise proposals are developed further.

Leader outlines his top three priorities

Street lights, travellers and town centre regeneration on the list

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

NEWLY re-elected council leader Jon Clempner has vowed to continue the fight to end part-night street lighting in Harlow.

Earlier this year the authority increased council tax by 1.5 per cent to raise the £100,000 needed to pay for the lights, which are currently switched off from 1am to 5am, to stay on. However, County Hall turned down the council's offer and said it would be fine tuning its policy in the following 12 months.

This week Cllr Clempner said street lights would be one of his top priorities, along with securing a permanent injunction to prevent travellers from setting up unauthorised encampments in the town and looking at ways to regenerate the town centre.

He was speaking after appointing his cabinet of six portfolio holders at Thursday's annual council meeting during which Conservative councillor Tony Hall was elected unopposed as the new council chairman.

The meeting was the first since the local elections on May 7 in which the ruling Labour administration increased its majority. It now holds 19 of the 33 seats.

The six members of the cabinet are Cllr Emma Toal (deputy leader and portfolio holder for youth and community), Cllr Jean Clark (governance), Cllr Mike Danvers (resources), Cllr Tony Durcan (regeneration and enterprise), Cllr Rod Truan (housing) and Cllr Mark Wilkinson (environment).

Cllr Clempner said: "I have a team in place to lead and work together on the issues that are important to making this town better and one which will continue to make a positive and visible difference to Harlow and meet the priorities of the community.

"These are exciting times for Harlow with projects like building council houses, renewing the Town Park and Harlow Enterprise Zone all gathering pace.

Three-year corporate plan

■ More and better housing: tackling the housing need of Harlow residents, both in quantity, affordability, range and quality.

■ Regeneration and a thriving economy: regenerating Harlow and supporting a thriving economy that benefits all the people of Harlow. Working with partners in local and national government, the community and the private sector to create an infrastructure that is appropriate for sustainable growth.

■ Wellbeing and social inclusion: working with partners to support people living happy healthy lives and getting along with one another.

■ A clean and green environment: an attractive, clean, green and sustainable environment to be enjoyed by all.

■ Successful children and young people: engaging young people and actively promoting opportunities for all, in education, in employment and in the community.

"However, there will continue to be challenges to overcome and I know the council will have to continue to look at what it does with less money due to further reductions in grants from the Government."

Cllr Hall, who represents the Church Langley ward and served as vice chairman last year, takes over the ceremonial position from Labour's Ian Beckett. His vice chair will be Labour councillor Edna Stevens.

In his acceptance speech Cllr

Hall paid tribute to the work of Cllr Beckett, who thanked all those who served alongside him throughout his time in office.

He paid tribute to the work of Cllr Beckett, who also gave a short speech to thank those who served alongside him throughout his time in office.

Cllr Beckett presented cheques to representatives of the three charities he supported during his year in office – No Child Without, Gibberd Garden and The Chocolate Run.

Our biggest challenge will be cuts in Government funding

I am deeply honoured and proud to have been elected as leader of Harlow Council for the second year running.

I am committed to doing my very best for this town and its residents and continuing to make a positive and visible difference to Harlow.

While major improvement projects gather pace like the council-house building programme, renewing the Town Park and Harlow Enterprise Zone, my immediate attention will turn to these three priorities.

■ Street lights. The council's proposal to pay Essex County Council to keep street lights on all night, seven days a week, is still on the table. Now the election is out of the way, discussions

by Council Leader
Jon Clempner

with the leader of Essex County Council, David Finch, will resume.

■ Travellers. The interim injunction banning the setting up of unauthorised traveller encampments across the town is in force and so far is proving to be a deterrent. However, we remain vigilant and are aware of a number of encampments currently within Essex. The council will be applying to the High Court for a hearing to make the injunction permanent.

■ Town centre. The Council recognises that parts of the town centre require serious investment and regeneration to complement the Water Gardens and the Harvey Centre developments. £1m has been allocated in the budget to pursue partnership working to improve and regenerate the town centre.

This is very much a long-term project but I'm hopeful in the next year we can take steps towards making the town centre better.

Of course the biggest challenge facing all councils is the ever-reducing finances from Government grants. The challenge will be to continue providing a high level of services whilst having much less money.

My priority will be to ensure that we work together to meet the needs of local people and continue to promote Harlow as a great town in which to invest.

Charity shoot hits the target for PAH breast cancer unit

A WOMAN who raised more than £77,000 for the breast cancer clinical trials unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital and St Margaret's Hospital in Epping by organising a charity clay pigeon shoot said she was in a "state of shock" at the success of the event.

Mum-of-two Victoria Gerlis enlisted the help of motorboat distributor Sunseeker London and international business law firm Mayer Brown to organise the event at the Royal Berkshire Shooting School.

The 100 guests, including former England rugby player Paul Sackay and celebrity chefs Silvano Giraladin and Anton Edelmann, enjoyed a morning shoot, a four-course lunch and a champagne reception before being invited to take part in an auction.

A unique Nelson Mandela-inspired canvas by artist Pure Evil fetched £25,000 alone.

The proceeds will help to fund the purchase of specialist equipment, introduce new initiatives and support research into breast cancer.

Ashraf Patel, associate specialist in breast surgery at PAH, said: "It is paramount we find new ways to prevent, diagnose and treat different kinds of breast cancer. These funds will keep up the treatment options and give women the opportunities they need to battle the disease."

Youngsters set to cut a dash on the soccer pitch

Football team sponsored by barber

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PLAYERS for a youth football team will be sporting cutting edge hair styles as well as wearing a new kit thanks to a sponsorship deal with a town centre barbers.

Members of under-12s team Ridsen Wood Warriors will be provided with home and away kits as well as tracksuits by Ali Barbers, in Terminus Street.

However, the contract struck between team manager John Wakefield and salon owner Ali Melin also includes a clause which will allow all players to be given one free haircut if they go into the shop wearing their football shirt.

As an added incentive to play well, the boys will qualify for a bonus haircut for every match they win, with this offer even extending to a friend.

The team, formerly called Harlow Hawks, trains at Paringdon Sports Club. They approached Ali Barbers in the hope of securing a shirt deal for the 2015-16 season and beyond but were taken by "complete surprise" when Mr Melin threw in the offer of free haircuts.

Michael Murphy, whose son plays for the Warriors, said: "I sent a message to him on Twitter and he said he was interested so John (Wakefield) went to talk to them and could not believe what they were offering."

"We were only hoping for shirt sponsorship but we got the whole kit and tracksuits plus the haircuts as well. At the rate it was going we thought he might be offering to buy us a minibus as well!"

"The shirts are on order now, it's absolutely brilliant."

Mr Melin, who owns several barber shops across the south east, said: "I wanted to sponsor them when they asked me and I am proud to have the name on the shirts. I have seen a photo of the kit and it looks very nice. I'm sure the boys will do very well and I wish them every success."

The players will collect their shirts in the next few weeks and will then be entitled to a free haircut.

Mr Murphy added: "The kids are really excited to be associated with Ali Barbers as it's a trendy hairdressers."

"It's a big commitment and we wanted to say thank you."

In brief

Sporting taster at Olympic Park

KATHERINES: Sporty students from Years 3 and 4 at Katherines Primary School in Harlow practised their ball skills in hockey and tennis coaching sessions at the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in Stratford.

The school, in Brookside, was one of only 50 chosen to take part at the London 2012 venue.

The children enjoyed quicksticks – a four-a-side hockey taster – and mini tennis at the Lee Valley Hockey and Tennis Centre.

The event was hosted by Lee Valley Regional Park Authority in partnership with the Lee Valley Leisure Trust.

Trust chairman Del Goddard said: "Hundreds of young people have had the chance to try hockey and tennis for free.

"We hope that they will be inspired by their experience at this fantastic venue."

Keep on running

THE STOW: Pupils at Cooks Spinney Primary in Harlow took part in a mini marathon around the school grounds.

The runners were split into two groups, with the older children following a longer route. They were given stamps for each lap they completed.

Head of school Stuart Pope said: "This is a real community event and it's become a bit of an institution here at Cooks Spinney."

Children were sponsored for the event and the money they raised will go toward the cost of revamping the outside space.

CASH PILE: Pupils from Roydon Primary School with the change they have collected for charity

Pupils coin it in for Nepal crisis appeal

PUPILS at Roydon Primary School have been saving their small change to help relief efforts in earthquake-hit Nepal.

The children used the money they collected to fill in the outline of the country drawn in chalk on the playground of the Epping Road school.

Although they used only 1p and 2p pieces, the total came to £130 which was donated to the earthquake appeal.

Head of school Gill Doyle said: "We lugged half a ton of coins to the bank and exchanged them for £130. We are so glad to be able to help, even in a small way."

Meanwhile, pupils are developing gardening skills on the school's new allotment set up by the student council with help from teachers and parents.

Every class has been allocated its own patch to grow fruit and vegetables as part of the Grow For It scheme launched last year.

Parents contributed £1 for a garden-themed dress up day and also provided plants and compost for use on the allotment.

"Our Grow For It project is now an annual event," said Ms Doyle. "The site was designed and created last year by our school council, with each class taking responsibility for their own section."

Academy is among best in the country

Burnt Mill Academy nominated

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

BURNT Mill Academy is in the running to be named as the best secondary school in the country at the Times Education Supplement awards.

The academy in First Avenue, Harlow, is the only school in Essex to be included on the shortlist of eight from across the UK.

The award, supported by the independent education charity AQA, recognises the dedication and commitment of schools that do outstanding work to prepare young people for the future.

Burnt Mill was nominated for its work to nurture children who attained lower than average grades at primary school into achieving higher than average results at GCSE level.

Paul Williams, assistant head-teacher at Burnt Mill, said: "We feel excited and honoured. It is a testament to the hard work put in by all members of our school community that we have been recognised in this way."

Invest

"If we win we will continue to invest in those things that make a difference to young people in our schools such as our reading recovering scheme and creating more time for study at school for students who struggle to find places to successfully learn at home."

AQA chief executive Andrew Hall said: "It's a fantastic achievement for Burnt Mill Academy to make the shortlist and we wish them all the best for awards night."

The winners will be announced in London on Friday, June 19.

Students swap roles with their deputy head

TWO students swapped roles with their deputy headteacher for a day to raise money to buy an onsite defibrillator for use in the school and the community.

Allan Osborne, associate principal at Mark Hall Academy, changed places with Year 8 students Kelsi Leverington-Poole and Jay Rickman, who won the opportunity in a raffle.

The pair were given several important tasks to perform, including observing a job interview and providing feedback to headteacher Corinne Franceschi.

Learning

Kelsi and Jay also joined staff on a learning walk and discussed Year 7 and 8 lessons.

Meanwhile, Mr Osborne took the place of Kelsi and Jay in PE and German classes.

Afterwards, Kelsi said: "It was a different experience and my favourite part of the day was observing lessons and feeding back information to members of staff."

The school started a crowdfunding appeal to raise £1,800 by Monday (June 8) and has already held a number of activities.

So far it has raised £1,500 towards the cost of the life-saving piece of equipment.

School turns things around to get 'good' Ofsted report

New rating shows rapid improvement over the past 20 months

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TEACHERS and pupils at a Harlow primary school are celebrating after it was awarded a good rating by Ofsted inspectors less than 20 months after it was judged to be inadequate.

Freshwaters Primary Academy, in School Lane, was marked as good in all five key areas of attainment – leadership and management, behaviour and safety of pupils, quality of teaching, achievement of pupils and early year's provision.

Praised

The team of three Ofsted inspectors, who spent two days at the school in April, praised the management team which they said had "worked well together" since the school had become part of the Burnt Mill Academy Trust in September 2013.

The latest Ofsted report states: "The academy provides well for children in the early years and achievement is good in Key Stages 1 and 2. Teaching is good and the academy has effective systems for developing teacher's skill."

Freshwaters missed out on an outstanding rating because the inspectors said pupils did not have as many opportunities to develop in reading, writing and mathematics as they could.

In addition, teachers did not always make it clear to pupils what they could do to improve their marks.

Freshwaters headteacher Marios Solomonides said: "When I began leading Freshwaters the school was inadequate.

"Our teaching and achievements were just not good enough and children were not making enough progress.

"My most recent report considered everything to be good; achievement, quality of teaching, behaviour and safety, leadership and management and our early year's provision. Ofsted agrees."

"I feel teachers, parents and children should be able to make decisions which affect them.

Benefit

"The rule is, if it is going to benefit the school then do it. I do not need to be notified of every last decision.

"As a result, people come up with all sorts of wonderful ideas, solutions and improvements."

As well as Freshwaters, the Burnt Mill Academy Trust oversees Cooks Spinney Primary School and Little Parndon Primary School in Harlow and Roydon Primary School.

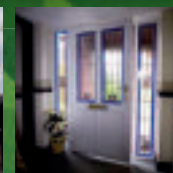

Helena Mills, head of BMAT, said: "We are very lucky to have a leader like Marios in our family of schools. His passion for the children to be successful learners and ambitious is infectious and is shared by all of us.

"Freshwaters is a special place to be for children."

EVIDENCE: Stolen vehicles were found at the site in North Weald

Car theft gang used farm units as base for £600,000 racket

Police carried out raid after tracing van stolen in Harlow

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

INDUSTRIAL units at a farm in North Weald were used as the centre of operations for a gang behind the theft of scores of cars and vans worth more than £600,000, a court was told.

Gang leader Ricky Steed, who masterminded the racket, was responsible for stealing most of the vehicles which were dismantled and the parts sold online or through cash-in-hand deals.

But the criminal operation came to an abrupt end when they stole a Ford Transit from an address in Harlow on the night of October 31, 2013. The owner had fitted a tracking device to the van and it led police to the industrial unit in Vicarage Lane.

It proved a crucial break for the team of detectives assigned to the case, codenamed Operation Deborah. Led by constables Chris Bailey and Matt Wigg along with specialist officers from the Essex Police stolen vehicle unit, they were working with Metropolitan Police officers to identify the thieves.

Armed with a search warrant, they searched the premises and found 23 vehicles in stages ranging from complete to completely dismantled.

Victims

Basildon Crown Court was told the gang – Steed, Iain Sellers, George Smithson, Lee Morris and Danny Johnson – had stolen 58 vehicles between February and December 2013. Many of their victims were tradesmen or market traders who woke in the morning to find their vans had been taken from their driveways.

Traces of DNA on a McDonald's straw on a workbench at the North Weald unit linked Steed to the site. Police then discovered he had rented another unit at the site where fingerprints on a van identified Sellers, who was an associate of Steed.

Further investigations established other units at the farm were rented by Lee Morris and numerous stolen vehicle parts and an intact stolen Ford Fiesta were found in one.

Enquiries then led police to George Smithson and vehicle parts were found when his home at Harlow Common was searched. Smithson was found to have been involved in cutting up vehicles and disposing of the parts.

The fifth gang member, Danny Johnson, was traced and was found to have been involved in the theft of vehicles.

Steed, 22, of Dagenham, admitted conspiracy to steal motor vehicles and was jailed for two years and six months. Sellers, 26, of no fixed address, admitted conspiracy and was jailed for two years while both Smithson, 22, and Morris, 37, from Tottenham, north London, admitted handling stolen goods and were given 12-month prison sentence suspended for 18 months.

Johnson, 27, of Dagenham, admitted theft and was given a 12-month conditional discharge.

Speaking after the case, Detective Sergeant Paul Tindall of the Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate's serious and organised crime unit said: "Operation Deborah was set up to counter the theft of Transit vans and Ford Fiestas by an organised crime gang operating in Essex and the neighbouring London boroughs of Havering and Barking and Dagenham. The centre of operations was the farm site at North Weald.

Teamwork

"Matt Wigg and Chris Bailey did a superb job in running this operation and it was a great example of proactive teamwork between officers from Essex and the Metropolitan Police.

"They worked tirelessly to tackle a crime that was affecting car owners and the many tradesmen who went out to work in the morning to find their van, their livelihood and their tools missing."

DS Tindall added: "This case was solved mainly because one owner had fitted a tracking device that led us to the gang. It demonstrated just how useful trackers are in bringing criminals to justice."

Homes needed for trainee guide dogs

FAMILIES in Harlow willing to look after a trainee guide dog are being sought by the Guide Dogs Association.

The charity is looking to place three dogs which are currently being trained locally from next month. The dogs are about 18 months old and live with the host families for about 10 weeks.

A guide dog trainer will collect the dog every weekday morning and returns it each afternoon after a day's training.

The dog will be tired at the end of the day and so won't need exercising in the evenings but once it has settled into its new surroundings it may be taken out for free runs at the weekend.

However, the dog cannot be left in the home alone for more than four hours.

A GDA spokesman said volunteers will need to attend training and agree to follow dog care guidelines on feeding and exercising the dog and managing its behaviour.

They will be provided with support and advice and supplied with all the dog's food and equipment. In addition, the charity will pay vets bills and other expenses.

For more information call 0845 372 7429.

PAH's £20k appeal to support patients with memory loss

Software packages can help to spark recollections

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN appeal has been launched by Princess Alexandra Hospital to raise funds for new equipment which will help patients suffering from dementia and other forms of memory loss.

The Harlow hospital's charitable fund will use the money to buy My Life memory packages which are used to spark recollections that can stimulate conversations between patients and nursing staff, family members and friends.

They have been described as a powerful tool in helping to improve patients' wellbeing and provide a more personalised package of care.

The software contains a huge range of photographs, video clips, radio shows and music dating back to the 1930s and also provides local pictures and newsreels from across the 20th century up to the present day.

Staff, patients and family members can create a book together, which can include personal likes and dislikes, favourite music and childhood pictures.

The cost of each package, which in addition to the software includes a 24-inch touchscreen TV on a trolley, a portable tablet and full staff training, is £5,000. The fund, which is a registered charity, has set a target of £20,000 but wants to but as many of the packages as possible.

Andy Dixon, matron for quality improvement at PAH, said: "There is currently no equipment like this being used at present and these software packages would make such a difference to patients experiencing dementia and other conditions."

"It aims to stimulate interaction and uplifting conversations and create new, positive memories for our patients. We are delighted that the charity has launched this fundraising appeal and we hope local people will support it."

People are being encouraged to donate to the appeal by visiting www.justgiving.com/PAHMemorySoftware.

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has demonstrated his support for the town's bid to become an officially recognised dementia-friendly community by visiting Alzheimer's Society volunteers.

Mr Halfon dropped in at the charity's dementia cafe at The Stow where he presented certificates to volunteers in recognition of their work in supporting people with the condition.

"In 2013 I was really happy to support the initiative to make Harlow a dementia-friendly community," he said. "Seeing the volunteers and their dedication grow year after year makes me really proud of the wonderful people of Harlow."

Police strike force thrashes embassy in community game

THIRTEEN proved unlucky for a team from the American embassy when they were swept aside by the boys in blue in a community football match held in Harlow on Sunday.

It was the first time the Harlow Police XI had taken on an embassy side. The game was played at The Link in Parsloe Road and ended in a convincing 13-1 victory for the home side.

The match was organised by Inspector Paul Maleary and PCSO Stuart Burt, who manages the police team which includes officers from other Essex stations.

"The boys in blue won 13-1 on the day but it was a great afternoon for both teams and supporters," said PCSO Burt. "There will be a re-match some time in the future."

He added: "Thanks must go to our FA referees Tom and Carl Why and to The Link for the use of their venue."

Cop a role as museum volunteer

VOLUNTEERS with an interest in history are being sought to help at the award-winning Essex Police Museum.

New recruits will be part of a team and will be asked to commit to working at least one four-hour shift a month.

They will be expected to greet visitors, record visitor statistics, run the shop, assist with children's trails and help with the general upkeep of the museum in Chelmsford.

Applicants, who must be 18 or over, will be interviewed and, if successful, will receive training as necessary.

Museum curator Becky Wash says: "This is a wonderful opportunity for anyone with an interest in museums or policing and working with the public."

"Whether you are a student wishing to gain work experience or retired with some free time to spare, volunteering at Essex Police Museum can help you gain new skills."

A recruitment day is being held on Saturday, June 13. For more details, email museum@essex.pnn.police.uk.

Get a taste of adult learning

A NUMBER of free taster sessions will be held in Harlow later this month as part of a Festival of Learning which seeks to inspire people of all ages and backgrounds to try something new.

The free workshops will take place during Adult Learners' Week (June 13 - 19) at Harlow Library.

Cllr Ray Gooding, Essex County Council's cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "I am delighted to see Adult Community Learning and Essex Libraries working in partnership to deliver these sessions."

"Adult Community Learning offers a breadth of excellent courses for adult learners and this is an ideal opportunity to have a go for free."

"Whether you are looking to improve your job prospects, meet new people or simply pursue personal interests, I would encourage you to come along and find out what's on offer."

No booking is needed for the Harlow sessions, the details of which are as follows:

Thursday, June 18: decorate a cookie (10am-noon), make simple icing flowers to decorate a cake (noon-2pm); quick draw challenge (2.30-4.30pm).

Friday, June 19: make a pair of earrings in chainmaille (10am-noon), needlework - create an applique (12.30-2.30pm); learn to sign (3-5pm); disability awareness (4-5pm); a taste of European languages and food (5-6pm).

wish to express their heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to all those who sympathised with them in their recent sad loss.

We especially thank our sister Ann & her son Dean for lovingly looking after mum/nan over the last 4 years, also the carers & Leah Manning for her respite (she loved the music!)

We thank the Doctors & Nurses on Henry Moore Ward, Princess Alexandra Hospital for their kindness & care.

We thank everyone who attended Eta's funeral, especially her family who travelled from Ireland; our aunt Tessa, Gertie, Matthew & Pappy Griffey and Sean & Christopher Gleeson.
We loved having you beside us.

Thank you to those who sent mass cards, perpetual enrolments, sympathy cards, flowers and donations for Dementia UK.

Our sincere thanks to Fathers Bogdan & Leszek from Fatima Church for celebrating Evening Prayers & the beautiful Requiem Mass at St Lukes Church.

Heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our aunt Kitty, Mena & Ken for their staunch love and support to us all.
Sincere thanks to Lorna, Mena & Anne for their beautiful readings at mum's mass.

Thank you Jerome Masterson for your professional touching funeral services. We loved your attention to detail ie the Rose on mum's door; stemmed roses & petals for her burial, and the lovely bouquet you made from mum's flowers for Chris Hanmore's grave for Bridget & Ben.

A true tribute to "Our lovely Rose of Clare"

Museum lands a £4k grant for temple project

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A NEW project by Harlow Museum telling the story of the discovery of the town's Roman temple site has been awarded a grant of almost £4,000 by the Essex Heritage Trust between the museum, Oxford University archaeology department and local experts secured the funding which will be used to make existing documentation more publicly available by converting it into an electronic format.

Work will begin later this month on collating and digitising the archive of the major 1980s excavations at the temple site in River Way, which were led by Richard Bartlett.

These excavations established the substantial time-depth of activity at the site, including ritual and funerary evidence spanning the Bronze Age to early medieval periods.

Mr Bartlett died soon after the fieldwork was completed and the results were never fully published.

The new project will be led by archaeologists from Essex County Council and Oxford University, together with museum volunteers who have curated the archive over the past decade.

The resulting digital archive will be safeguarded and made accessible to the public for future research by the Archaeological Data Service.

Digital images and text from the project will feed into new displays and leaflets at both the museum and the Science Alive facility at Harlow Leisurezone as well as, potentially, the temple site itself.

Science Alive chief executive Jon O'Connor said: "Harlow Museum looks after local archive material, some of which is of real national significance. Obviously, we're thrilled to have an opportunity to celebrate its work in this way."

"Overall, the project marks a giant step towards the future publication of this significant excavation, a strategy for which will be another key outcome."

Wasp with more than just a sting in its tail

A NEW type of wasp which has been named the dementor after the scary characters in the Harry Potter novels is one of 139 new species discovered in south-east Asia.

The wasp, which was found living by the side of a river in Thailand, eats cockroaches which it injects with a type of poison.

This leaves the unfortunate insect unable to control its own movements and the wasp is then able to devour it alive.

Other discoveries made by biologists include a crocodile newt, a frog that changes colour and the world's second-longest species of measuring 53cm (21 inches).

As well as animals, the scientists also found 90 new types of plant.

Details of the discoveries were revealed in a report by the World Wide Fund For Nature (WWF) which has warned many of the new species could already under threat of extinction.

A spokesman for the charity said: "Protection from poachers, conservation of their habitat and maintenance of free-flowing rivers is needed to ensure their survival."

The charity also fears the new species may also be sought after by collectors of animals and plants, posing a further risk to their numbers.

HARLOW BUSINESS EXHIBITION

Town Showground, Harlow, Tuesday, June 9 2015, 10am - 4pm

Now in its sixth year, Harlow Business Exhibition has expanded to accommodate its highest number of exhibitors yet, with more than 135 organisations represented at the event.

Each company will have a stand at this year's show, which is being held at The Showground in the Town Park.

The exhibition is designed to showcase the very best of Harlow business and to demonstrate the variety of businesses in the town that are flourishing in difficult financial circumstances.

The event runs between 10am and 4pm and kicks off at 9.50am on Tuesday, June 9, when Harlow MP Robert Halfon opens what he has described as the "biggest business event in the East of England".

Hundreds of visitors are expected to attend to find out more about the companies exhibiting, giving firms the chance to forge new contacts and find new customers.

Event co-founder Ian Hudson, of Harlow Business Exhibitions Ltd, said: "Our aim has always been to provide a forum for local businesses to showcase their services and products to local people.

"We are delighted that so many organisations have chosen to take part this year."

Entry is free and there is plenty of free parking. There is a hog roast in the afternoon.

Already 135 stands have been booked but there are still spaces available outside the main marquee.

Haven House Children's Hospice is the supported charity this year.

Homecoming show to wave goodbye to town's iconic venue

WILD ockers Papa Shango will be saying goodbye to The Square with a wacky homecoming show at the end of the year.

Showcasing their unique brand of electro-circus rock, Papa Shango will play the iconic Harlow venue on December 18 and join a star-studded line-up in a week of live music to bid farewell to The Square at its current Fourth Avenue base.

Led by the charismatic Papa Rob, who dresses as a voodoo priest for the live shows, Shango offer a performance unlike anyone else that "has to be seen to be unbelievable," according to one newspaper review.

Papa Shango have played Glastonbury and Boomtown in their time, but as a Harlow band playing the smaller Square venue is a night that all of the members are looking forward to.

Rob said: "We are very excited to play at The Square and return to where it all started. The Square is our home and although it sad to see the building close we look forward to taking part in its future at a different location."

Having just released highly anticipated second album Manservant on iTunes, the band are on a high lining up an extensive summer of touring, that also includes dates at Glastonbury festival as well as Chelmsford's Fling Festival and Garden Party at Stansted.

Preferring to release sparingly and perfect their music, Manservant is the result of five

CIRCUS:
Papa Shango
to play in December

PAPA SHANGO

years of hard work and just the second release since Papa Rob founded the band in 2003.

The sophomore LP, which hit virtual shelves on May 1, features songs such as Buoys Ahoy, Too Sick to Rule and numbers that only Shango could dream up about Prime Ministers with flu symptoms.

A band member said the new album is: "A cocktail of lunacy, irreverence, childish lyrics and over-repetitive riffs".

However, it is in the live show that Shango really come alive with new dancers and backing singers adding to an already barmy show driven by Papa Rob's thrusting ambition to be the UK's most ridiculous live band.

The crazy show sees the core band joined on stage by a dancing skeleton, fire breather and performing banana, with 14 members of Shango taking to the stage making the performance more of a circus than a traditional band.

With 11 of the crew calling Harlow their hometown, this really is a venue close to their hearts.

Collapsed Lung guitarist and Square manager Steve Harcourt adds some grit to a bizarre and, in places, sexual performance that NME described as a "saviour" of live music.

Although the gig is some months away, this is definitely one to put in the diary.

Bringing to stage sound of the 60s with tribute show

THE spirit of the 1960s will be coming to town next month when tribute act Roy Orbison and Friends rock Harlow Playhouse.

The show on Saturday, June 13, will pay tribute to the great singers of the golden age of rock and roll including Elvis Presley, Jerry Lee Lewis and, of course, Roy Orbison, whose work will be brought to life by Barry Steele.

With amazing lighting and visual effects the stage will be suitable for the man in black himself with Steele's vocal more than doing justice to the late great Orbison.

Steele has only been singing since 2004 after a career with the RAF, but has quickly risen the musical ladder and leads the show with classic hits including Pretty Woman, You've Got It and I Drove All Night.

The show will also cover hits of Orbison's super group The Travelling Wilburys which included Tom Petty, Bob Dylan and George Harrison.

Tickets for the show, which starts at 7pm, cost £19-22 and are available from www.playhouse.harlow.com or the box office on (01279) 431945.

Who do you think you are kidding?

WILSON, Jones and Pike will be on parade at the Victoria Hall this week.

And the exploits of Captain George Mainwaring and the rest of Walmington-on-Sea Home Guard will be playing out to audiences in Harlow Theatre Company's (HTC) four-night run of the stage adaptation of the popular BBC sit-com.

Written by Jimmy Perry and David Croft, the show ran from 1968-77, with a total of 80 episodes over nine series.

It made household names of many of the leading characters and the 'Don't tell him Pike' scene in which the unit is given the task of standing guard over a German

U-boat crew was voted one of the 10 funniest TV clips in a poll of viewers.

Set during the Second World War, Dad's Army explored the lives of members of the Home Guard and based its humour on class snobbery, slapstick situations and wartime banter between the main characters.

The stage production sees the unit facing up to battle with the German army and the local air raid warden William Hodges.

Strict licensing restrictions mean that only three original episodes – The Godiva Affair, Deadly Attachment and Mum's Army – are allowed to be reproduced on stage.

HTC will perform all three episodes during the four-act performance, which will conclude with a floral dance that was not originally broadcast.

Director Barry Bowen said: "It is something we have been thinking about for quite some time and with it being the 70th anniversary since the Home Guard was stood down, we thought it would be quite a good time."

"We thought it would be a good way to pay tribute [to war veterans] and also to a very popular show. I'm sure audiences will love it."

Barry is a long-time director in Harlow, having been at the helm of many pantomimes staged at The Playhouse over the years.

The cast will be led by Paul Stevenson, who many have said bears more than passing resemblance to actor Arthur Lowe who starred as the pompous Captain Mainwaring.

"The show has all the challenges that come with having a large cast and everyone knows the characters so well, the audience will be a line ahead of you," said Barry, who was a teenager when the TV show was first screened.

"The cast are still laughing at the script even though we have rehearsed it many times. I have been a fan for years."

■ Performances of Dad's Army run until Saturday, starting at 7.30pm daily. To book tickets, which cost £11 (£9 concessions), visit www.ticketsource.co.uk/harlowtheatrecompany.

Time-travelling youngsters show talent

ITIMETRAVEL
POTTER STREET, HARLOW

ONE thing has always been clear, Makin' Steps have always had a close eye on the future and their latest production reflected this with all the elements of talent and quality that Harlow audiences have come to expect.

The flexible but cunning narrative centres around two girls, Maisie Humphreys and Abbie Middleton, exploring a new app on their iPad called "iTimeTravel".

Unaware of quite what this will allow them to do they take a leap into the unknown and travel back through Makin' Steps past productions to join in with the present ensemble and to take a glimpse of what the future might have in store.

And so the audience are treated to thirty-four numbers over two and a half hours from the company's extensive repertoire – street dance and hip hop, ballet and tap dancing, musical theatre and quality singing that could grace any professional venue during any era.

In fact, increasingly, it is the quality of the vocals that are drawing me to Makin' Steps productions and my only criticism is although the dance performers were centre-stage and rightly so, the "backing-singers" could have been more visible. They certainly deserved to be.

Five performances over four days, Makin' Steps played to packed houses at their Potter Street base location.

A quick glimpse at the programme shows you that Makin' Steps is very much a family-affair and with the majority of audience members greeting proprietor Margaret Wright with a hug and a kiss it's very clear who the head of the household is. Don't upset mum and the show's guaranteed to be a sure-fire success.

With astonishingly, more than 90 performers involved in this tremendous showcase, it's hard to single anyone out but the vocals of Hannah Furness (What Now) and Brooke Turnstill (Thinking Out Loud) were particularly impressive. And the choreographers, who are integrated members of the company, should be immensely proud of the work they achieved.

The pièce de résistance was saved for the moment that Maisie and Abbie literally jumped into the screen of the giant iPad and out again. Clearly there are few barriers Makin' Steps can't break through – just give them TIME.

What strikes me, time and again when I see Makin' Steps productions is not just the sheer professionalism of the performances but the reflection of the confidence and conviction shown by Harlow's young people taking part. They say that Britain has Got Talent. Well, Makin' Steps is growing it and showing it and it's something that they and the entire town should be proud of.

Survivor

ACTION THRILLER (15)

120 minutes

Director: James McTeigue

PIERCE Brosnan's glory days as suave secret agent James Bond are a long and distant memory, which grows considerably fonder with each improbable twist and turn in Survivor.

Originally entitled Alchemy, James McTeigue's explosive-laden spy thriller uses the covert war on terrorism since the September 11 attacks as a wobbly framework for a predictable game of cat and mouse between a fearless US agent and a sadistic assassin on the streets of London.

Brosnan sheds his nice guy persona to play the sharp-shooting villain, who has had "so much reconstructive surgery, nobody knows what he looks like".

It's a throwaway line of dialogue to casually explain why the striking Irish actor can swan around the capital, leaving destruction and bullet-riddled bodies in his wake without fear of capture, while statuesque co-star Milla Jovovich is tracked by almost every CCTV camera.

Her ability to emerge unscathed from a hail of bullets during the film's action sequences is one of many perplexing questions that remain unanswered by Philip Shelby's flimsy script.

Director McTeigue, who previously razed London in the 2005 dystopian fantasy V For Vendetta, seems content to demolish a few more city blocks and ignore gaping holes in the plot.

Security expert Kate Abbott (Jovovich) is drafted to the US embassy in London by her mentor, Ambassador Maureen Crane (Angela Bassett), to identify visa applicants who pose a threat to Homeland security.

Intuition tells Kate to look closer into Romanian doctor Emil Balan (Roger Rees), who wants to visit America to attend a medical conference.

She delays his visa application with the backing of section chief Sam Parker (Dylan McDermott) and investigates further, aided by four ambitious interns (Antonia Thomas, Sean Teale, Rege-Jean Page, Jing Lusi).

An elusive hit man known as The Watchmaker (Brosnan) is hired to eliminate Kate in order to expedite Balan's visa application, which is part of a bigger plot to inflict massive damage on American soil.

The first attempt on Kate's life fails and video

A long, long way from James Bond evidence falsely implicates her in the terrorist atrocity.

Hunted by The Watchmaker and Inspector Paul Anderson (James D'Arcy), Kate defies embassy survival protocol to evade capture and defuse the terrorists' hydrogen, methane and fluorine bomb.

Survivor is a generic battle of patriotic Americans versus nasty foreigners that casts Jovovich in her familiar role as a one-woman killing machine.

Brosnan's lacklustre performance remains in the shadow of a fake moustache that occasionally crawls across his upper lip, while Frances de la Tour fleshes out a thankless supporting role as a technowizard, who affirms Kate's innocence.

Set pieces are solid if unremarkable including bruising fistfights between the two leads.

The picture's 48-hour timeframe and a threat of six-digit casualties should generate a far greater sense of urgency than McTeigue accomplishes.

Take inspiration from gardens

HEDGE your bets and celebrate the great diversity of gardens over National Gardens Festival Weekend. The festival, returning for a third year, is hosted by the National Gardens Scheme (NGS) and features more than 400 gardens opening their gates to the public this weekend.

The event supports a range of charities, including Macmillan Cancer Support, which has received £15.25 million from NGS so far, and Marie Curie cancer care, which has received £7.3 million.

Pembroke Farm Garden, Baldock, is hosted by Krysia Selwyn-Gotha, who has worked with the NGS for three years.

She said: "The NGS festival is a brilliant idea. Gardening is something that can touch everyone, especially with the pressures of everyday life.

"Everyone has lost contact with each other and themselves and gardening lets them re-connect with who they are.

"Gardening is rewarding and meaningful and I am a strong believer in the health benefits it brings."

From small urban plots and romantic cottage gardens, to the grounds of grand country estates, there is something for everyone - around 65,000 people attend each year.

Visitors can expect to see a range of displays, with most hosts also providing home-made teas and refreshments.

George Plumtre, chief executive of NGS, said: "Looking round an interesting garden has to be one of the most enjoyable ways of raising money for charity."

He says he is proud of what the festival has accomplished in previous years and is hoping to raise even more this time around.

TV presenter, gardener and NGS president Joe Swift is encouraging people to go along, enjoy the views and support the causes.

He said: "Whether you're a seasoned garden visitor or a first-time supporter, I urge you to stop by a couple of gardens over the festival weekend and join in the celebration."

A mixed grill on the BBQ

Burgers and bangers are great staples of the barbecue but why not try something a little different with these tasty recipes

FULL OF FLAVOUR: Beetroot, halloumi and courgette kebabs

Teriyaki Surf 'n' Turf with Salsa

Surf 'n' Turf makes a great barbecue spread - just increase the quantities of 'surf' (prawns) and 'turf' (steaks) according to the number of guests you're feeding.

Preparation time: 20 minutes (plus marinating)
Cooking time: 10 minutes

Ingredients

For the surf 'n' turf:

4tbsp Kikkoman teriyaki marinade
2tbsp lime juice
2tbsp sunflower oil, plus extra for frying
4 small rump or sirloin steaks, trimmed
12 large peeled raw prawns, heads and tails on

For the salsa:

1 wedge of watermelon, peeled and deseeded
¼ cucumber, halved and deseeded
1 red onion, peeled and chopped
75g/3oz sweetcorn
½ green chilli, deseeded and chopped
1tbsp Kikkoman less salt soy sauce
2tbsp white wine vinegar
2tsp chopped fresh marjoram or oregano

Method

1 For the surf 'n' turf, whisk together the teriyaki marinade, lime juice and oil. Using separate dishes, pour half over the steaks and half over the prawns. Cover and refrigerate for one hour.
2 For the salsa, dice the watermelon and cucumber and mix with the onion, sweetcorn and chilli. Stir in the soy sauce and vinegar, then sprinkle with marjoram.
3 Heat a frying pan, oiling if necessary. Fry the steaks briskly for 5 minutes or until done to your liking, turning once. Remove and keep warm.
4 Wipe the pan, add more oil if needed and cook the prawns for 1-2 minutes on each side until pink. Remove from pan, pour in any remaining marinade and bubble for 30 seconds before spooning over the steaks and prawns. Serve at once with the salsa.

Beetroot, Halloumi and Courgette Kebabs

The infused beetroot in this recipe provides a quick and easy way to add extra flavour and colour, creating a seriously tasty light summer supper or vegetarian option to add to a BBQ spread.

SERVES 2

Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 10 minutes

Ingredients

1 tsp cumin seeds
½ lime juiced
1tbsp olive oil
200g halloumi, torn into bite sized chunks
4 cumin & pomegranate-infused beetroot, cut into quarters
4 spring onions, cut into 3cm battens
1 small courgette, sliced into disks
4 kebab sticks

Method

If using wooden kebab sticks, soak them in water before using so they don't burn on the barbecue. In a small frying pan, toast the cumin seeds for a minute or two until they become fragrant, take care not to burn them. Remove from the heat and stir in the lime juice and oil and season well.
Tip the veg and halloumi into a large bowl, pour over the dressing and combine well to coat.
Thread the veg and cheese onto kebab sticks, reserving any dressing left in the bowl. Cook for 4-5 minutes on each side the barbecue or under the grill, until the cheese is browned and crisp on the outside and the veg is cooked.
Pour the reserved dressing onto a serving plate. Once cooked, turn the kebabs on the serving plate to soak up the remaining dressing.

Each month, Harlow's Raj Lodge, of High Street, Old Harlow, and Garden Of India, at Bush Fair, Harlow, will bring you one of their tasty recipes, so you can try and create your own version at home. This month... Chicken Tikka Masala

Cook up a marvellous masala with our help!

CHICKEN TIKKA MASALA

SERVES: 4

PREPARATION TIME: 20 MINUTES.

COOKING TIME: 30 MINUTES.

INGREDIENTS:

500g Boneless Chicken (cut into small cubes)
1 Medium Onion
10g Fresh Ginger
1 Garlic Clove
1 Medium Tomato
Small Green Pepper
4 tbsp Veg/Olive Oil
Half-tsp Turmeric
6 tsp (40g) of Pataks Masala Paste (the quickest way at home - we make our own, which is our secret recipe)
1 heaped tsp white sugar
1tbsp natural yoghurt
125 ml fresh single cream
3-4 knobs butter (optional)
Fresh coriander (optional)

INSTRUCTIONS:

STAGE 1: (PUREE)

1. Cut the onion and tomato into quarters and chop the green pepper, ginger (peeled), garlic clove, and a little coriander.
2. Put the above in a small saucepan together with 3tbsp oil, turmeric, a pinch of salt and a cup of warm water (around 200/250 ml), covered with lid.
3. Gently boil the vegetables until soft (approximately 15-20 mins), stirring occasionally.

4. When cooked, place in a blender to make into puree.

STAGE 2: (CURRY)

1. Heat the remaining oil (over a moderate heat) in a medium-sized saucepan.
2. Add the Pataks Tikka Masala paste and cook for a few seconds (stirring continuously).
3. Add the ready-blended puree and gently bring to the boil (stirring regularly).
4. Add the chicken with a little warm water (around 100/125 ml) and on full heat bring to boil and cook for 2 mins.
5. Add the yoghurt, sugar and cream and bring to boil.
6. Back to moderate / low heat, leave to gently simmer (covered) for 20-30 mins or until the chicken is cooked and the required texture is reached.
7. Add more water if you prefer more sauce, or cook on higher heat for slightly longer with the lid semi opened for thicker sauce.
8. Once cooked, add the butter, stir and leave the curry to settle for 10-15 mins. Remove any excess oil before serving, garnished with a little fresh coriander.

TIPS: If you prefer a milder masala add a little more yoghurt or cream. Also if you would like a healthier version, substitute the cream for coconut milk and sugar for honey.

This is just a quick and easy way of cooking the curry. Feel free to follow us on Facebook and Twitter to ask us more questions. Next time will show you how to make a healthy salad and get that tandoori flavour without a clay oven at home.

Stylish home with roomy conservatory

THIS family property is a well-presented three bedroom link detached home in Church Langley. The accommodation comprises entrance hall, ground floor cloakroom, lounge, separate dining room, conservatory and kitchen/breakfast room.

On the first floor there are three bedrooms with an en-suite to master, as well as a family bathroom.

Externally, the property has an up-and-over garage as well as driveway parking.

Attractive wooden flooring runs through the lounge and dining room out to the conservatory, which has a brick-built base and French doors leading to the rear garden.

The kitchen is super-stylish (see front cover of Homes), with integrated double oven and dishwasher, recess for washing machine and fridge freezer, gas hob with extractor fan over and tiled flooring with underfloor heating.

Upstairs, the master bedroom has an en-suite with shower cubicle, while bedroom two is a double with fitted wardrobes.

Bedroom three is a good-sized single.

The family bathroom has a three-piece white suite with chrome heated towel rail, shaver point and tiled flooring.

Outside, the rear garden measures approximately 30ft with a raised decking area.

■ The property is being marketed for £340,000 by Intercounty, The George, Station Road, Old Harlow. Tel: 01279 639666. email: harlow@intercounty.co.uk; web: www.intercounty.co.uk

Help to Buy success in Essex

HOUSE buyers in Essex are taking up the Government-backed Help to Buy scheme in droves, with the county securing the highest number of scheme participants in the East of England.

Figures released by the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) show there were 1,591 Help to Buy sales registered in Essex in the past two years, almost 200 more than second in the poll Bedfordshire, and more than 1,000 more than neighbouring county Suffolk, which had just 447 Help to Buy purchases.

According to Barratt Homes Eastern Counties, the scheme has been a huge success in Essex.

Sales director Jason Colmer said: "These figures demonstrate a fantastic success story for Help to Buy in Essex. Its popularity means that homebuyers in the region have really made the most of this Government funding which has helped them onto or up the property ladder."

"Of course, a lot of these results will depend on the availability of new homes in these specific areas but the figures certainly help give us an idea of where Help to Buy has proved most useful."

ASSISTANCE: Help to Buy is available on properties at Gloucester Gate, Basildon

Help to Buy allows homebuyers to secure a brand new property under the value of £600,000 with just a five per cent deposit.

The Government lends the buyer 20 per cent of the value of the property in the form of an interest free equity loan for five years, meaning that buyers then gain access to some of the great mortgage rates currently available with just a 75 per cent mortgage. Available to all homebuyers, not just first-timers, the scheme helps anyone looking to get on the property ladder.

Mr Colmer added: "With lower upfront costs as well as more affordable monthly mortgage payments for homebuyers, Help to Buy continues to be a very affordable way to buy a brand new home."

FACTFILE

- Anyone could be eligible to buy a new home using Help to Buy – even if they are buying their second or third property – with a deposit of just five per cent
- Properties worth up to £600,000 can be eligible for the Help to Buy scheme, which offers equity loans of up to 20 per cent of the price of a new home

- Unlike previous government housing schemes, your income has no effect on your eligibility to use Help to Buy

"How Many Should We See?"

When looking for a property, it is natural to want to see as many as possible before making the "right" choice and common sense dictates that you should view a handful of alternatives before buying.

Our job as professional estate agents is to help you arrive at a decision that's right for you, your situation and your lifestyle. So, if you are struggling to balance the merits of No.33 with its new kitchen against No.16, with the better garden, here are some pointers which might help:

First, there is a place for instinct, and sometimes the heart should be allowed to influence, if not rule, the head. This is a home after all and not a stock-market share. Ask yourself the obvious question, "Could we be happy here?"

However, your head needs to agree with your heart. Is your favoured property a significant improvement on where you already live, or are you just being bowled over by a smart exterior or fashionable lighting?

Weigh up the important aspects of life - commuting time, school run, parking, entertaining space (although do you really entertain that much?) Satisfy these first before allowing the view or the extra storage space to sway you away from your core reason for moving.

Finally, you can bet your bottom dollar that if you instinctively like a particular house, other buyers will as well. We usually find that a property that fills most people's needs, as opposed to their wants, will sell very quickly. The more you see, the more difficult it becomes to make a decision at all. So our advice is: decide your minimum criteria with your head and once these are satisfied in a property, let your heart take it from there. Why not ask us to show you a selection of properties so you can get a real feel for what's available?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Our Residential Specialist School and Children's Home provide care and education for children and young people with moderate or severe learning disabilities and associated complex needs.

Residential Learning Support Assistants (RLSAs) £18,953-£19,624 per annum

An opportunity to assist children and young people, by enhancing all aspects of their day to day life, leisure and learning, and working in both their residential home and in the classroom supporting all areas of the curriculum. Paid or voluntary experience of working with children and young people with additional needs / disabilities in a residential or education setting is required with one of the following qualifications and a willingness to achieve the second of these: Children's and Young People's Workforce Level 3 Diploma and NVQ Level 3 in Supporting Teaching and Learning in Schools.

Trainee RLSAs £17,334 per annum

Our Trainee RLSAs who work across the residential home and in the classroom receive support in the workplace to achieve dual qualification. Upon achievement of the Children's and Young People's Workforce Level 3 Diploma, trainees progress to a Permanent RLSA role with support for NVQ 3 in Supporting Teaching and Learning in Schools.

Permanent Child Care Workers £15,953 - £17,334 per annum

This role involves supporting children in their day to day lives, usually outside of the classroom. Prior care work experience is an advantage. You will be supported to achieve the Children's and Young People's Workforce Level 3 Diploma if you do not already hold this qualification.

All roles involve working 37.5 hours/week, 52 weeks a year. There is a shift system of late and early shifts over 5 days a week, including an average of one in two weekends.

We offer an excellent range of staff benefits including optional childcare vouchers, contributory pension scheme, 33-38 days paid annual leave (inclusive of Bank Holidays) plus free on-site parking. An application form and further details can be found at www.stelizabeths.org.uk

Closing Date: 17 June 2015 @ noon. Interviews: Week commencing 22 June 2015.

St Elizabeth's Centre is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of all children and adults who use our services and expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment. All posts are subject to enhanced DBS clearance. St Elizabeth's Centre is an equal opportunities employer committed to equality and diversity.

READY TO IGNITE: James Foster in batting action for Essex against Somerset on Friday

Foster seeks blast-off in Surrey showdown

Rock-bottom Eagles urged to salvage T20 campaign

by Oliver Harbord

oliver.harbord@hertsessexnews.co.uk

JAMES FOSTER has admitted that Essex must put things right quickly if they are to salvage their NatWest T20 Blast season.

Friday night's three-wicket defeat by Somerset at The ECG was the Eagles' fourth loss in their opening five games in the competition, leaving them rooted to the bottom of the South Group.

And with just nine games remaining before the quarter-finals, Foster knows the recovery must start with a win at Surrey this Friday.

He said: "We lost a game of cricket, but we showed some very good fight that may well hold us in good stead for the tournament."

"It is not ideal but we are going to have to put it right pretty quickly."

"You just have to try and qualify; that is the goal, whichever way we can do that."

"But we are making it difficult for ourselves at the moment."

In a thrilling game, Essex posted 176 from their 20 overs thanks to 54 from Jesse Ryder and 68 from Tom Westley.

But a masterclass of short-format batting from West Indian star Chris Gayle – playing his first game for Somerset – proved to be enough for the visitors.

He struck 92 from 59 balls, with Lewis Gregory and Max Waller scrambling a single off the final ball of the match to secure victory.

Smashing

And with Gayle also smashing 151 from just 62 balls against Kent on Sunday, Foster hailed one of the world's best T20 players.

"Ultimately, it was a good game of cricket and the crowd got their money's worth," he added.

"But I guess that they were really paying in hope of an Essex victory; however, it wasn't to be."

"It went down to the wire, which happens sometimes in T20 cricket. You can look back at it and the various moments of the game where we could have done better, but we showed a lot of fight."

"When you are coming across someone like Chris Gayle it is always going to be very hard work and, ultimately, he won the game for them.

"It is the sort of thing you see him do on the television in all the different tournaments that he plays around the world."

"He is a tremendous player and that knock showed why he is box office and probably one of the best in the world."

"We lost too many wickets and it was always hard to rebuild. I felt that we got some momentum, but it dragged away again for maybe the last three overs."

"It is an obvious stand-out thing for us, but I still felt it was a very good score."

I just wish Gayle had nicked one!

FRIDAY night's defeat by Somerset was really unfortunate, especially as I felt that we had got enough runs on the board.

We got off to a great start through Jesse [Ryder] and Tom [Westley], going at about 12 runs an over.

It was just a bit of a shame that we couldn't see it home, really.

Chris Gayle really took it away from us after he got going and really got his eye in.

He is a brilliant player, seeing as he got 92 against us and then 151 against Kent on Sunday.

With the first over [which only went for one run] I was trying to nick him off and had him in quite a lot of bother, which was good.

It did go the way I had planned, but it would have been nice if he had edged one through to the keeper.

There was a big moment in the 15th over when he was dropped, but then that sort of stuff happens in cricket.

We can still qualify and it felt that we had really got the ball rolling in Cardiff, but unfortunately it wasn't meant to be against Somerset.

This Friday we travel to the Oval to take on Surrey and it is a very big game that we will be going all-out to win.

This week I have been playing in the second XI in the three-day game against Middlesex.

I really want to put myself back in contention for the longer format of the game and this has been a good opportunity for me to get back into that.

I have really enjoyed it and I feel like I am able to handle the heavier workload that comes with the four-day game.

Darts

DAVE GALLOWAY (White Admiral) was Harlow Premier Darts League's Singles champion after winning the best of nine leg final 5-1 against Jason Phillips (Sawbridgeworth Brewery).

Phillips notched a 180 maximum but 3x18 dart legs including a 150 outshot secured Galloway's win from a starting field of 70.

Galloway won 4-2 in his semi-final against Jeff Etherington (Servo Link), while Phillips defeated John Cashman (White Admiral) 4-3.

In the Singles Plate Knockout, Andy Hentall (White Admiral) beat Aaron Stock (Paringdon Lions) 3-2 in the final.

Hentall defeated Sarah Byrne (Paringdon Social) 3-2 in the semi. Stock triumphed with a 3-2 against Dave Baker (Tye Green Pirates).

Balance of banter and respect so love-Lee

NEW Harlow Rugby Club chairman Tracey Lee has seen a massive turnaround in the girls and women's game since she took up the sport 12 years ago.

The ladies might still take their fair share of friendly banter from the men at the Elizabeth Way club, but Lee (43) knows respect is there, especially for her promotion to the Rams' top role.

Lee, of Milwards, said: "I do think that I have built up a relationship with the main men at the club.

"There are some men that will have a joke and say 'get back in the kitchen' but I don't mind the banter. But I do think that they take me seriously now.

"I've shown what I can do and that hopefully can take me forward.

"This season we have worked on bonding between the ladies team and the rest of the club.

"When I first started it was all separate. The first team and the second team had their own little bubbles. I have tried to integrate everybody and bring everybody together."

Lee added: "The women have only been going for about ten years and even then it was started with some reluctance and the men were saying 'it's never going to last'.

Sexist jokes

"We had all the rest of the sexist jokes, but as time has gone on the men have totally accepted us and recognised that we are quite successful in our own right."

Girls' rugby is also improving and Harlow have formed links with Hertford and Old Albanian to put out strong teams at age group levels.

"Four years ago I got involved with trying to set up girls' rugby at Harlow.

"We had four people play for Essex [last season], one captained Essex, that's really good.

"We still haven't got enough girls to field all our teams, which is something we are trying to improve.

"We've got a couple of girls going into the U18s and for the first time we have got a couple of girls who are eligible to come into the ladies' first team.

"That will be a great achievement when those two play for the ladies. We will be able to say they trained with our girls system and they are now playing adult rugby. It's scary to think the girls I have coached from 15 years old are now on the pitch with me. But that will be great."

She has now turned her attention to getting more boys playing for Harlow.

She said: "I want to try and get players at every age group. We are missing a couple of age groups [including U15 boys]. But our minis section hit one hundred this season for the first time. It's doing very well.

"It's good that we are getting them so young, but can we retain them for the whole of their childhood?

"And will they still want to play in adulthood. Sometimes you feel the boys that have been brought up playing rugby get fed up and want something new. We need to try and keep their interest."

Chairman converted by taking son to play

New rugby club chief reveals how she took up sport

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

A TRIP to take her son to play minis rugby ignited a commitment to the sport which has seen Tracey Lee become the first lady chairman in the Rams' history.

Lee (43), player-manager of the Harlow Rugby Club women's team, enjoyed two years as vice-chairman before taking the top role.

It is an exciting time to be chairman of the rugby club, as it prepares to move from its 60-year home at Ram Gorse in Elizabeth Way to a new state-of-the-art complex at Latton Farm off Second Avenue.

Lee, of Milwards in Harlow, was born and brought up in Cornwall and is a distant relation of former England captain Phil Vickery.

But it was only when she moved to Harlow and took her then ten-year-old son Aaron to the club to try out minis rugby, that she thought: 'I can do this, it looks like fun'.

Lee, an I.T. administrator for Hertford brewers McMullen & Sons, recalled: "I first went to Harlow Rugby Club when my son Aaron started playing rugby in the minis section.

"Whilst there one Sunday I saw a group of women about to play rugby: I stayed to watch and became totally hooked.

"I spoke to captain Kelly Cotterill [now Smith], borrowed her boots, and started playing. After my first season (2004/05) I won the Most Improved Player of the Year award. The following year I won the Manager's Player of the Year award and also represented Essex at county level and East at regional level."

Flair

Lee was no stranger to sport as she is also a first kyu in judo.

But Lee, who plays in the second row, has discovered a flair for rugby and in 2009 she captained the Essex team.

She also captained Harlow and has now been player-manager of the team, which plays in the RFU South East Challenge League, for six years.

Lee says increasing membership is one of the key goals for her tenure as chairman.

She said: "Hopefully the new clubhouse will help attract new players.

"We have lost our third men's team [last season]. When I started at the club there were five men's teams and the veterans.

"We've been talking about development, creating a structure to develop coaches, referees and the players themselves.

"We are throwing around some ideas about how we can do that.

"We just need to create a more professional club.

"As the time has gone on and the building [at Ram Gorse] has become more run down, the attitude to it has declined as well. It's not a great place to be when the roof is leaking and the showers don't work, the ladies toilet is not very nice.

"They like my ideas and attitudes to things. I seem to have the Midas touch on everything and hopefully that will continue."

Lee is the first woman chairman in Essex, and only the second in the East region, after former Lowestoft & Yarmouth RFC's Yvonne Titterton.

"One of the big differences is that I am still playing. Experiencing life as a player, which I think the exec [executive committee] was far away from, as they had all stopped playing so many years ago, they didn't have the experience of playing to bring to Harlow, which I do," she said.

The other thing she hopes to improve is the number of volunteers helping out at the club.

"We need more volunteers and people doing things. We are looking to recruit more club officers and I'm hoping that people will think 'well if she can do that, why can't I get more involved'," she said.

"I don't know if people are scared of what it might involve. Maybe they don't think they can do it. The hardest thing is getting people to volunteer as time is restricted.

"I'm not someone who will just talk about it, I will do it. Let me organise and do something in the background and that's fine."

Lee will remain as chairman for one year initially, but is expected to continue beyond that, overseeing the move to Latton Farm which could be in 2017-18 if things go according to plan. "This year no one else put themselves forward, so I got the role by default," she joked.

KEY MAN: Simon Rowell posted figures of 5-35

Harlow won by 96 runs

A FANTASTIC Harlow Town performance in the field was the key to ending their winless league run on Saturday.

Second-placed Leigh-on-Sea were put to the sword, dismissed for just 125 runs as Town wrapped up a 96-run victory.

Skipper Neil Gladwin praised stalwart bowler Simon Rowell, the architect of Leigh's downfall with 5-35.

Gladwin said: "Simon's bowling, which has been underestimated for years, was the difference."

"He is a genuine wicket-taker and has proven again how invaluable he is with the ball in his hand. Our fielding was also exemplary today, which hasn't been in previous weeks.

"I'm hugely optimistic for the rest of the season."

Winning the toss Gladwin batted first.

Openers Shiraz Ali and Ashley Alderson put on 89, before Alderson nicked behind for a well crafted 44 off 57 balls.

"Having Shiraz and Ashley set us up with the bat should give both players the confidence that I have always had in their ability," added Gladwin.

Wickets fell at intervals but Ali made an impressive 52 and Leigh's Alan van Lint finished with excellent figures of 6-74.

In reply, wickets fell early and Dan Farmer found the edge of Jon Edwards' bat as wicket-keeper Pat Yates made a wonderful one-handed diving catch.

Then Ramya Upadhyay bowled opener Nick van Lint (8) and Billy King (0) to leave Leigh on 43-4.

Dean Waller had already recorded scores of 91, 115 and 81 this year and looked menacing, as he found three boundaries in his first three shots.

But in a match-winning moment, Ronnie Yates made a fantastic diving catch inches from the ground to dismiss the key man for 34 off Rowell.

Rowell then devastated Leigh's battling order which finished on 125 as Town picked up a well-deserved 25 points.

Harlow Town's seconds (80) were thrashed by Gidea Park (82-1), losing by nine wickets.

Town's third team (143) lost by six wickets against Billericay (144-4).

Ashley Norcott bowled well with figures of 3-37.

Harlow Town fourths lost by 60 runs against Belhus, despite some excellent bowling from Nick Teale (5-52) and Tom Wilcox (3-47).

Belhus were 90-5, however the hosts dug in and finished on 181-9.

In reply, Town struggled with the bat, with the exception of Paul Smith making 42, and were bowled out for just 121.

Club's women hit top form in midweek race

THERE were terrific displays from Harlow Running Club's female members in the second round of the Herts/Essex Midweek Road Race League Division Two.

The women's veteran team won their section, while the senior women were second.

The hilly, six-mile course took runners through part of Epping Forest.

The Harlow men were fourth, so this meant the club were overall fourth out of nine teams.

After two races Harlow are in third place.

First Harlow lady to finish was Louise Brass in a fantastic second place out of 89 finishers and she also won first veteran 35 in 41min 12sec.

She was followed home by Julia Gardiner (5th and 3rd Vet 35, 43:38); Sharon Wright (11th, 44:42); Carinne Jay (14th 2nd Vet 45, 45:09); Vicky Steadman (16th 46:12); and Paulene Galoppi (81st 3rd Vet 65, 61:19).

Other women results were:

38th Janice Page 50:58; 46th Debbie Smith 51:40; 48th Debbie Barry 52:27; 53rd Michelle Aitken 53:37; 55th Karen Moir 54:07; 56th Louise Cootes 54:10; 60th Martine Beard 54:56; 61st Louise Kedge 55:03; 65th Paula Coleman 56:34; 66th Holly Nairn 56:43; 67th Alison Bull 56:50; 69th Susan Maloney 57:29.

Men's HRC results (of 165 finishers): 23rd Jamie Jephcott 38:02; 37th Andy Terrell 40:11; 43rd Adrian Fell 40:38; 46th Steve Mackenzie 40:55; 131st and 2nd Vet 70 Jim Bates 49:20; 62nd Len Saterlay 42:41; 63rd Brendon MacLean 42:44; 70th John Bull 43:12; 76th Mark Hayward 43:35; 87th Sean Flynn 44:50; 88th John Tennant 44:53; 106th Colin Moody 46:24; 110th Roy Steven 46:39; 120th Spencer Brooks 48:06; 127th Martin McColgan 48:58; 128th Robin Lozeau 49:00; 134th Matt Jones 50:17; 140th Dave Page 52:11; 141st Alan Wellbelove 52:16; 142nd Terry Pike 52:32; 153rd Martyn Coulter 55:40; 158th Ron Newton 56:52.

Prolific

Prolific runner Andy Kinney completed two marathons within a week.

He completed the Dunkirk 75th Anniversary Challenge, an off road race between Dover and Folkestone, finishing in 56th place out of 88 finishers in 6hr 10min 32sec.

Then on Saturday he completed the Kent Roadrunner Marathon, involving several laps of the Cyclopark at Gravesend in Kent. He was 273rd place out of 387 in 4:48:09.

Meanwhile at the Harlow parkrun 5K, Ben Chitiyo won for the third consecutive week from 138 runners. He clocked 19:06.

He was followed by Paul Dixon, who was 15th in a personal best (PB) time for the distance of 22:38.

Other times were: Spencer Brooks 23rd, 23:46; Robin Lozeau 24th, 23:52; Jim Bates 28th and 1st Vet 70, 24:38; Alan Wellbelove 50th, 26:11; Debbie Barry 53rd, 26:16; Debbie Smith 59th, 26:48; Martyn Coulter 62nd, 27:11 (debut); Jeff Mace 66th, 28:00 (PB); Louise Cootes 67th, 28:04; Michelle Hughes 92nd, 31:00 (debut); and Austin Nyamande 103rd, 33:57.

At the Edinburgh Marathon, Jamie Jephcott finished in 279th place out of 7160 finishers in an excellent 3.11.01.

His son Daniel was 2019th in 3.50:09.

Khawaja's exit dashes Harlow's win hopes

Two wickets in final over provide tense climax to draw

Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League, Division One
Shenfield 224
Harlow 172-9

Match drawn

THERE was a nervy finish as Harlow's last-wicket pair frustrated Shenfield to secure a draw for their side.

Missing skipper Rehman Ahmed, Jon Perry captained the firsts.

Chasing 224, a brilliant third-wicket partnership between Hafiz Yawar (77) and Ahmed Khawaja (51) gave Harlow a glimpse of victory.

Once Khawaja departed wickets tumbled but the visitors managed to grind out six points with nine wickets down.

Perry said: "Up until the last 20 overs we were in a position to win. In the last over they got two quick wickets in two balls and it made it tense. It was a strange game."

Earlier, Mustanser Meraj took three wickets in his opening spell as Shenfield batted first.

After the ball stopped seaming, Shenfield scored more freely through Haris Mahmood (88) and Suhaib Sarwar (69).

Harlow was indebted to a fine spell from spinner Tom Ryder, who took 5-57 in his 16 overs.

Meraj finished with four wickets and Lewis Aldred got the wicket his bowling deserved when wicket-keeper Alan Jones took a routine catch.

Crisp timing

Shenfield finished on 224 all out after 51.5 overs.

In their reply, Harlow started brightly through some crisp timing from Yawar, who put on 80 for the third wicket with Khawaja.

Only a late flurry of boundaries from Ross Vasani (19) gave the Harlow score some respectability as they reached 172-9.

Arshad Ali took 5-50. Harlow are back at Marigolds on Saturday as they host Woodford Wells.

The Harlow second team ended a string of defeats then they beat leaders Wickford in a nail-biting one-wicket victory.

Harlow's decision to bowl first was key as Wickford simply could not handle the pace and accuracy of the returning Nicky Baxter.

The top order were blown away in the first half an hour in a devastating opening spell of bowling that saw Baxter claim five wickets.

Callum Sykes (2-11) supported Baxter superbly as Wickford collapsed to 22-7.

The fightback was led by Wickford youngsters Conor Etchells (65) and Ryan Carey (80), who played exceptional innings considering the circumstance and made the most of a typically flat Harlow pitch.

Baxter mopped up the tail to finish with remarkable figures of 8-47 from his 19 overs.

Chasing 190 to win, Harlow were struggling at 59-4.

Matt Heskett (15) and young skipper Andre Riddell (25) batted positively, before a superb sixth-wicket partnership from Joe Riddell and George Messenger shifted the momentum.

Messenger hit a brilliant 46 in a knock which ultimately proved decisive.

He was dismissed with 37 runs required and one wicket remaining.

Danny Stone (21no) showed his experience, along with Sykes (10no), to see Harlow home (190-9) with ten overs to spare.

Harlow thirds (120-3) continued their amazing start to the season with their fourth consecutive victory, beating Hutton (118; Amir Farooq 5-9).

Harlow fourths (228-5), who top their division, drew with Uppminster fifths (176-6).

Harlow fifths (111; Jack Sykes 46) lost at Three Caps (115-3).

Athletes star at county champs

WILL SNOOK won his first senior title when he captured gold at the Essex County Championships in a thrilling 400 metre race.

He was one of ten Harlow Athletic Club youngsters competing in the championships at Chelmsford.

Snook won in a photo finish, finishing four-hundredths of a second ahead of his nearest rival in a time of 49.18sec.

In a similarly close finish, Dylan Ellis picked up third in the U20 100m, missing out on the top two after a photo finish.

In the U17 boys events, Harry Woodall reached the 100m final in a new personal best (PB) time of 11.83 and then went quicker as he picked up fifth place in the final; dropping his PB to 11.65.

On day two, Woodall returned to take part in the 200m with club-mate Shemar Boldiszar.

Both qualified for the final in which Woodall was sixth in a PB of 23.88.

Boldiszar won the final in 22.23, which was the fastest time of any age group during the weekend.

Kieran Bull made his first appearance at county level in the same age group and made the top eight for discus and javelin respectively.

In his preferred event of discus he managed 26.30m and 28.98m in the javelin.

At U15 level, there was double delight for the Harknett family. Owen Harknett ran in the 800m and picked up silver in 2min 13.36sec.

Later in the day Lewis stepped up to the gruelling 3000m. He completed the seven and a half laps in 10:06.14 to claim bronze.

In the U13s all three Harlow athletes were making championship debuts.

Savanna Sirkett and Katie

Brennan both took part in the 800m.

Katie was seventh out of 12 in the B final, clocking 3:05.20.

Savanna was in the A final and ran 2:45:40 to finish fifth overall.

James Petty was 15th out of 22 athletes in the long jump with a best leap of 3.49m.

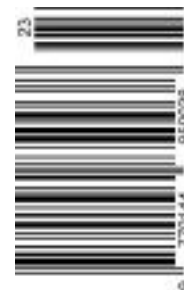

He ran 14.77 in a strong field in the 100m but did not make the final.

However, he did make the final of the 200m and finished in fourth place in 29.96.

At the Herts County Championships, Mohamed Tamedou won gold in the U20 100m.

HAC juniors coach Steve Lott said: "There were some fantastic performances and many congratulations to the athletes."

"I'm not simply referring to medallists as there were a lot of personal bests."

CUNNINGHAM'S GOT RIGHT CHAP

Hawks chief targets new players as he backs boss

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk
HAWKS chief executive Tom Cunningham has pledged his full support to boss Danny Chapman as he settles into his new joint role as director of football and first team manager.

And Cunningham (59) has revealed the pair are already targeting players for next season.

"Danny has taken on a full-time position, which two years ago if you would have said I would be employing somebody full-time at the football club I would have said 'you're deranged, you've lost the plot' but that's how far the football club has moved forward," said Cunningham.

"I have spoken to Danny about next season, about areas of improvement, who we're going to get. We have been looking at games at a higher level, looking at players."

Hugely impressed

Cunningham has been hugely impressed with how Chapman has coped with management over the last four and a bit seasons, learning and progressing as his experience and knowledge have expanded.

"If you look back on his position as manager, he took the side over with 17 games to go in 2010-11. He was unbeaten and got us to the play-off semi-final," explained Cunningham.

"Then the following season we missed out on the play-offs. The season after that he had no budget and his remit was purely 'keep us in the league' which he did even though he got deducted ten points.

"The last two seasons we have got to the play-offs. We got a record number of points for the club and have not won the title. Once you get to the play-offs, it is a play-off - it's a totally different

"We know the rules, whether we have got one point more, or we finished fifth like Thurrock did, and potentially can get promoted.

"You can only look at yourself and say 'what more could we have done?' and I don't think we could have done much more.

"A year ago we were going in the right direction. A year later my only disappointment is that we are not in a better league.

"The season when we cut the budget Danny worked wonders, and probably learnt more than he did at any time in his short managerial career.

"That was hard work and I wouldn't want to go through that again."

But Cunningham is determined that the club is run sensibly and stays within its means.

"The only thing the fans would agree with is that they want the club to survive," he said.

"You don't want this club going through administration again and all the pitfalls that come when you over-extend yourself. It's not going to happen.

"But the money we get we will spend on the team - it's not going to be boom or bust."

Rams could turn dressing room pink

NEW Rams chairman Tracey Lee has joked she could turn a dressing room pink when the rugby club moves to its new multi-million pound home at Lotton Farm.

Harlow could move in the next two years and Lee, unveiled as the first lady chairman in the club's 60-year history last week, vowed with tongue-in-cheek that the women's team could get their own back for years of heading home from training in dirty kit.

The present clubhouse in Elizabeth Way is certainly not inspiring females to take up the sport, but that will improve dramatically with the move to a state-of-the-art ground with several pitches and a plush clubhouse off Second Avenue.

"From the girls side of it, it is really not attractive for females at all. We do struggle on that side of things," Lee (43) said.

"It's trying to get them to the club which isn't attractive.

"Quite often it means the ladies have to turn up dressed and ready to play. Because we train on Thursdays, the same as the men, the men have the showers and we don't.

Separate showers

"I'm looking forward to having those separate showers. We might make the opposition change in a pink changing room that is the ladies changing room."

Lee knows the women's game has moved on dramatically.

She said: "It is improving, we are getting there. But there is that image that it is a dangerous sport and why would you want to play it?"

The key for the new chairman is the switch to the new stadia, which will give Harlow one of the finest grounds in the East region.

Lee, who is player-manager with the women's team, is confident the club can then attract more players - both genders and all ages when its new ground is completed.

"You would like to think we would attract a few more players for the first team, whether it's players on their way down and pull themselves out of the higher level if they are getting older, or whether it's younger players on their way up," she said.

"Hopefully the new facility will attract new people."
